

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

ON looking over the series of catalogues of the sales of books at auction during the season of 1901 and 1902, we are struck with the almost total absence of great libraries, which, when sold, were in the condition in which they left the hands of their owners. Although this 1902 volume exceeds in size and number of lots any of the seven volumes already published, its bulk depends largely upon the catalogues of books from a few great collections, and upon sales made up of important material probably consigned by various owners, but the catalogues of which were not descriptive of the books of any one library or collection. Owners of rare books know that where a few rare items are included in a miscellaneous collection of second-rate or ordinary material the prices realized are very likely to be less than the same items would bring if they were offered in a sale made up mainly of rare or important books. And in consequence the auctioneers are likely to keep small lots of first-class material until they have enough consignments from various owners to make a catalogue of a two or three days' sale.

One of the greatest of American collections of rare books, that of Mr. Marshal C. Lefferts, was sold to a bookseller early in the season, and a considerable portion of it found its way into the auction room. The Lefferts Library was notable and remarkably complete in two lines: first, English poetry and prose, including English plays, before 1700; and, second, books relating to American discovery and history, in the English language, mostly printed before 1700 but with a few important items of later date. That portion of the collection of English literature which was not disposed of privately was offered at auction by Bangs & Co., April 21-24 inclusive, and almost every lot in the catalogue finds a place in our record. The unsold portion of the Americana was sent to England and sold at Sotheby's. That, of course, does not enter into our compilation.

Three parts of the Library of the late Thomas J. McKee, the sale of the first part of which took place in November, 1900, were sold during the season by John Anderson, Jr. These were Parts IV, V, and VI. Part IV was sold on December 2 and 3, 1901. It included Mr. McKee's collection of English prose and verse of the Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries, and the catalogue contained one of the most remarkable series of titles in these classes ever offered in this country. Many of the books, however, were inferior copies. All those whose condition was first class brought high prices. The most notable, both from point of interest as well as that of price, was a copy of the 1624 edition of Shakespeare's "Rape of Lucrece." This was large and fine, in a modern binding by Bradstreet, but the device and imprint of the title had been cut out and replaced. This little book brought $1925.00. In some respects the next most interesting item in the sale was a copy of the Earl of Stirling's "Recreations with the Muses," first edition, London, 1637. It contained the excessively rare portrait of the author engraved by William Marshall, and on this account brought the unprecedented price of $760.00.

Part V of the McKee Library, sold on February 17 and 18, was largely made up of manuscripts and prints. A two-page folio manuscript in the handwriting of Major John André, being a Prologue written and spoken by him on the occasion of the opening of the John Street Theatre, in New York city, on the evening of January 9, 1779, brought $1710.00. Autograph manuscripts by John Howard Payne, John Keats, and John G. Whittier, were also notable items in the sale. Although playbills do not find a place in our record it is worthy of note that a specimen of the earliest known New York Playbill, announcing a performance of King Richard III at the Nassau Street Theatre on November 12, 1753, brought $506.00.

Part VI of the Library was sold on May 12 and 13. This section included books in several departments, being the important residue left after the earlier classified sales, and a few books overlooked when the previous catalogues were prepared. Most notable were the few items of early historical Americana, American Bibles, etc., which had been excluded from the first catalogue of American poetry and plays, and the series of books by Eighteenth and Nineteenth Century English writers. The most important books in the latter class were, of course, the first editions of the writings of Shelley, Keats, Lamb, Tennyson, etc. The copy of Shelley's "Adonais, an Elegy on the Death of John Keats," 1821, which had been given by the author to Leigh Hunt, brought $2125.00, the highest price paid for a single volume during the season. Two other Shelley rarities, both without autograph interest, were "An Address to the Irish People," 1812, an uncut copy, $710.00, and "A Proposal for Putting Reform to the Vote Throughout the Kingdom," 1817, taken from a volume of pamphlets, the edges being trimmed, $625.00. Other first editions of Shelley's writings, as well as some of the rarer books by Keats and Lamb, brought high prices.

The most remarkable price paid during the season for any book was probably the sum of $2025.00, which was paid for a quarto Bible with the imprint "London: Printed by Mark Baskett, . . . 1752," and lacking the title-page of the New Testament. Although having the London imprint, this was, it is claimed, printed by Kneeland and Green in Boston, they having put the London imprint upon it in order to prevent prosecution by the English publishers, who had the sole privilege of printing Bibles. This story has been current since the publication by Isaiah Thomas of his "History of Printing" in 1810, and has provoked much discussion. No copy of the Bible had, however, been heretofore identified.

Although Mr. McKee possessed few rare books of the class generally called Americana, he had a small number of rarities which excited keen competition. The best of these was a copy of the exceedingly rare first edition of Cadwallader Colden's "History of the Five Indian Nations," printed by William Bradford in New York in 1727. This brought $860.00. Thomas's "Account of Pensilvania and of West-New-Jersey," 1698, brought the record price of $805.00. The exceedingly rare 1634 edition of Wood's "New England's Prospect," with the map also dated 1634, brought $620.00, another record price.

Among other famous books constantly sought after by collectors, and which are increasing step by step in price each time a copy comes up for sale, were the first edition of the Poems of Robert Burns, printed at Kilmarnock in 1786, which brought $825.00; and the first edition of Gray's "Elegy," 1751, which brought $740.00.

The most important volume of incunabula sold during the year was also in this sale. It was a copy of the first edition of "The Imitation of Christ," printed by Gunther Zainer at Augsburg in 1471, and brought $1600.00. This was the very large and fine copy which had been priced by Quaritch at £21 in his catalogue in 1876.

The collection of first editions of important authors which had been brought together within the last few years by Mr. Alfred J. Morgan was purchased some time ago by a bookseller, and considerable portions sold from it. The residue—if we dare to call it such, including as it did some of the rarest and most sought after books of the most famous authors of the Nineteenth Century—was sold by Bangs & Co. on April 1 and 2, 1902. The prices, however, with perhaps a few exceptions, were less than would have been realized without much doubt had the books been sold as the property of the collector himself.

The sales of the Lefferts and Morgan books showed conclusively that books, even fine and rare items, put up at auction by a bookseller and known to be his property, and not "protected" at the sale, do not attract bidders in the same degree as the same books would be expected to do if sold as the property of a private owner.

Mr. William R. Weeks, of Newark, N. J., has been known for years as a collector of material relating to that State. His library, or at least a very large portion of it, was sold in Philadelphia by Mr. Henkels on March 5 and 6. It included some first-class items, the most notable being a little pamphlet of eight pages with the unattractive title, "A True Account of the Dying Words of Ockanickon," printed at London in 1682. This brought $1450.00. Anything relating to American Indians, and of such fugitive interest and as rare as this little piece, is almost certain to command increasingly high prices during the years to come.

While from the point of view of the person interested in collectors' books the sales mentioned above have been the most important of the season, there were other private libraries made up of large numbers of books in various departments of knowledge, though containing few pieces of great rarity or high market value. Such books, which are bought to be read, interest by far the larger number of bookbuyers generally, although the sales do not attract any such audience or provoke any such competition as the sales made up of collectors' books. These sales, as well as those of more miscellaneous character, made up of books from various sources, often, no doubt, in considerable part from booksellers' stocks, will be found in our chronological list.

For this volume we have made selections from 166 catalogues, comprising 274 days' sales in upwards of 300 sessions. The total number of lots in the catalogues from which we have made selections is a little over 114,000, being within a few hundred of the same number of lots sold at auction the preceding season. The percentage of lots worthy of a place in our volume seems to have been a trifle larger, and in consequence our book has run a little thicker.

Recognized and used as American Book-Prices Current now is, it is almost unnecessary to prefix any explanatory words regarding the scheme of the volume. As, however, this annual volume is likely to fall into the hands of some who are not familiar with the work, we add a few words of explanation.

The minimum limit of price fixed is three dollars, and no lot selling for less than this amount has been included. Nor do we claim that every lot selling for three dollars and over may be found in the record. Current books which can still be had of the publishers are generally excluded, and in cases where "remainders" are being worked off by throwing copies into numerous sales, a representative selection only is generally introduced. Some other items selling at about our limit, more especially books in foreign languages, as well as occasional cases where the catalogue description was too meagre to identify the book, have been excluded.

The arrangement throughout is generally the same as the previous volumes. Books are entered under their author, where the author is known; otherwise, under the first important word of the title. To this there are some exceptions. Anonymous histories and biographies will usually be found under their subjects. The publications of clubs and societies are usually under the name of the society; but, occasionally, publications of some of the minor societies will be found under the name of their author. Different books by the same author are arranged alphabetically by titles, and different editions of the same book are arranged according to the date of publication. Books from the Kelmscott Press, Vale Press, Essex House Press, and the Roycroft Press are entered under the headings of the Presses. The Autographs are, of course, arranged alphabetically by authors.

The date given under each lot is that of the first day of the sale. The full period covered may be found by referring to the chronological list of sales following this Preface. The number in parentheses is the original lot number in the sale catalogue. Books in American auction rooms are sold by the volume, but the prices here given are for the lot, not per volume.

The abbreviations used in describing the Autographs are well known to collectors. A. L. S. is Autograph Letter Signed ; A. L. is Autograph Letter, unsigned ; L. S. is Letter Signed, the signature only autographic ; A. D. S. is Autographic Document Signed ; D. S. is Document Signed.
